22ND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

YEAR A

3 September 2017

READINGS: JER 20:7-9; ROM 12:1-2; MT 16:21-27

The prophet Jeremiah was faithful to his God-given mission, no matter what it cost him. It is an image we see repeated in the GOSPEL—Jesus demands the same fidelity of those who would follow Him.

Peter rejects out of hand the revelation that Jesus is to be a suffering Messiah. He represents the typical Christian caught between faith and doubt, and for whom the Cross is a stumbling block.

GOSPEL REFLECTION

There is a way of losing by gaining.
You can win an argument but lose a friend.

Through competition and promotion

I may advance in my profession,
but in terms of relationships I am impoverished.

My energies are so focused on efficiency and success that I haven't time to grow emotionally and to develop my capacity for relationships.

In one's drive to attain power, a person may sacrifice friendships and loyalty, so much so that one ends up alone.

Lord, let me never forget your haunting words:

'What good will it do you to gain the whole world if you lose your soul?'

CHILD PROTECTION SUNDAY 10TH SEPTEMBER 2017

"SEE ME, HEAR ME"

As has become the custom each year the Child Protection Sunday, and the preceding week beginning Monday 4 September, provides a focus reminding each of us to play a part in protecting our children. This year our theme is "See Me, Hear Me". The question is how do we, Immaculate Conception Parish Unanderra, play our part in listening to children to ensure they are kept safe? This year the National Committee for Professional Standards have commissioned a video and brochure through the Australian Catholic University reflecting on research around what children think about their safety. They have also prepared a number of resources to help us explore the focus question.

Novena Prayer

Ever generous God,
 You inspired Saint Mary MacKillop
 to live her life faithful to the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and to be constant in bringing hope and encouragement to those who were disheartened, lonely or needy.
 With confidence in Your generous providence
 we join with Saint Mary MacKillop and ask that You grant our request.

Healing for Fr David Catterall

 Mary MacKillop, may live with courage,

 Ever generous God hear our prayer.
 We ask this through Jesus Christ. Amen

TAKE A RISK AND GIVE THE GIFT OF FAITH

In our parish there is a team of volunteers that take a risk and step out in faith. State Government schools do not provide lessons that teach the basic message about Jesus, our faith and the great adventure that life can be with God. We were all given our gift of faith by someone, someone stepped-up for us so that we would know Jesus. Each week of the school year Catechists present 30-minute lessons using a step-by-step lesson plan that helps Catholic children understand their faith, grow in love and maturity and learn what it means to be Catholic. Take a risk and give the gift of faith. Become a Catechist teacher or helper today!
 For more information, please call 4222 2416 or ask our parish priest for more information.

My dear people,

Parishes in our Diocese this week are joining with all other Dioceses around NSW to oppose a Bill to be presented to the NSW parliament on 14 September to legalise Assisted Suicide. Human dignity is honoured in living life, not in taking it. In a recent publication the Australian Bishops answer six common myths.

Myth 1: Euthanasia can be legislated for safely. The fact is that euthanasia and assisted suicide can never be safe. Because terminally ill people are vulnerable to powerful feelings of fear, depression, loneliness, not wanting to be a burden, and even coercion from family members, no law can adequately protect them from succumbing to euthanasia if it is available. Experience in other countries has shown clearly that it is impossible for government - authorised killing to be made safe.

Myth 2: Dying with dignity. The fact is that our dignity is not dependant on our usefulness or health, but simply on our humanity. Our society should be judged by how well we care for the sick and vulnerable. Everyone should be loved, supported and cared for until they die. There is nothing truly dignified about being killed or assisted to suicide, even when the motive is compassion for suffering. Suicide is always a tragedy. People at a very low ebb are not helped by being told by our laws that we think they would be better off if they were dead. The community is rightly concerned about the high level of suicide in Australia, and much effort is put into reducing it. To then introduce government-authorised killing on request, would be to create a dangerous double standard.

Myth 3: Euthanasia is an issue of personal liberty and personal choice. The fact is that euthanasia always involves a second person and is therefore a public act with public consequences. Euthanasia would forever change the nature of doctor-patient relationships, from one of a duty to care and heal and comfort, to one where a doctor is given the power to kill or to help you kill yourself.

Myth 4: It's worked well in other places, like the Netherlands, Belgium, and Oregon in the US. The overseas models are not working well. The so-called strict guidelines are failing badly, with deadly consequences. When euthanasia was introduced in Belgium in 2002 it was considered only for terminally ill adults, deemed to be in their right mind, with full consent given. A little over a decade later, the Belgian Parliament has now legalised euthanasia for children of all ages and dementia patients. In a study in Flanders, 66 of 208 cases of euthanasia occurred without explicit consent. The Dutch government's own statistics show that more than 300 people die each year without explicit consent. Euthanasia in the Netherlands now includes the unconscious, disabled babies, children aged 12 and over, and people with dementia and psychiatric illnesses.

Myth 5: Euthanasia should be legalised because opinion polls support it. But Parliaments don't legislate on opinion polls alone. Parliaments are elected to consider all the relevant arguments, to legislate in favour of the common good, to endorse responsible action and to protect the vulnerable, whose voices and concerns are often not heard in opinion polls. When parliaments across the world have had a chance to examine all the evidence and all the dangers of euthanasia, the great majority of them have voted against it, even in the face of strong opinion poll support.

Myth 6: Euthanasia is necessary to relieve pain. Good palliative care, not killing, is the answer to relieving pain for the dying. Palliative Care Australia says that good, well-resourced palliative care gives people the ability not only to live well in their illness, but to die well too, "free from pain, in the place of their choice, with people they wish to be present, and above all, with dignity". Great medical gains are being made in palliative care and many families speak of palliative care as providing very precious time with their loved one. But the fact is that palliative care is not offered to many dying people in Australia and in some places there would be no opportunity to receive it, even if a person in great pain asked for it. No one should be talking about euthanasia in Australia until we have righted this wrong.
