CHRIST THE KING, YEAR A

26th November 2017

READINGS: Ezek 34:11-12, 15-17; 1 Cor 15:20-26, 28;
Mt 25:31-46

God is portrayed by the prophet not so much as judge but as a shepherd of all His people (FIRST READING).

At the end of time Christ will reign as King of the universe having overcome all hostile forces, including death (SECOND READING).

We don't know exactly how the Last Judgement will happen, but we do know on what Jesus' followers will be judged (GOSPEL).

PLEASE REMEMBER IN YOUR PRAYERS

Gospel Reflection

Mother Teresa of Calcutta once said:

"Many today are starving for ordinary bread. But there is another kind of hunger - the hunger to be wanted, to be loved, to be recognised.

Nakedness, too, is not just the want of clothes, but also about loss of dignity, purity, and self respect.

And homelessness is not just want of a house; there is the homelessness of being rejected, of being unwanted in a throwaway society.

The biggest disease in the world today is the feeling of being unwanted and uncared for.

The greatest evil in the world is lack of love, the terrible indifference towards one's neighbour."

Lord, warm our cold hearts with Your grace, so that we Your disciples may produce the fruits of love.

THE JOURNEY CATHOLIC RADIO PROGRAM—AIRS 26 Nov 2017

This week on the Journey, Fr Stephen Varney reflects on the Gospel of Matthew. Bruce Downes, The Catholic Guy talks about Finding Our Awe, Marilyn Rodrigues, The Peaceful Parent encourages us to Know Our Neighbours and we have a take on King Lear that only Sr Hilda from the Abbey could come up with. We have some fabulous music, put it all together and you have a show about faith, hope, love and life. Go to www.jcr.org.au or www.itunes.jcr.org.au where you can listen anytime and subscribe to weekly shows by email.

VOCATIONS—WHO IS YOUR KING? We sometimes put off thinking about vocation, or what God wants, instead putting our energy into other areas. God is calling; we need to prioritise our response. Pray, talk with others, find out what God wants. Please contact Fr Duane Fernandez on 0414 626 357 or priesthood@dow.org.au

My dear people,

NOVEMBER is probably a good time to share some thoughts on the celebration of Catholic funerals. At the time of the death and burial of a loved one, emotions can run high. So, before we have to face this traumatic event in our lives, we should be quite clear as to procedures. What does the Church teach regarding its funeral rites?

What should be kept in mind?

Firstly, and most importantly, the Church's liturgy (i.e. her official worship, which includes funerals) centres on Christ—His life, death, and resurrection, what we call His Paschal (or Passover) mystery. Into this mystery we were plunged at Baptism, and we were given the promise of immortality. This is why the Paschal Candle, marked with Christ's Five Wounds, is lit both at our Baptism and our funeral. The light of Christ scatters the darkness of our lives and especially, the darkness of death. The climax of our lives in Christ during our earthly existence is the reception of Holy Communion, and so it is most appropriate that our funeral take place during the celebration of Mass.

The celebration of Mass, of course, is strictly controlled so that our priorities stay clear. The deceased, no matter how much we loved them, are not the centre of the Mass—Christ is the centre. We bring our loved ones to the Church so that we may celebrate their union with the Crucified and risen Christ. They have shared His death; we pray that they may also share His resurrection. You might notice that, at the funeral, the deceased take the same place they had at Mass: a priest faces the congregation, lay people face the altar.

Does this mean that the Church is insensitive to the emotions of the mourners? Not at all. Many are not aware that the Church proposes that the funeral liturgy be celebrated in three stages:

- 1) A vigil the night before, either at the house of the deceased, the funeral parlour, or the church. Hymns and Scripture readings may be interspersed with the sharing of memories. The form of the ceremony is very flexible.
- 2) The celebration of the Funeral Mass. The family is invited to liaise with the priest as to the selection of hymns and Biblical readings, and the composition of the Prayers of the Faithful. The music must be religious. Remember, this is the Church's Worship.
- 3) The burial, or service at the Crematorium. The Church allows cremation on the condition that the ashes are treated with the same reverence as the body. They should be buried reverently.

If there is to be no Funeral Mass, then a Liturgy of the Word is celebrated. The ideal and presumption, of course, is to celebrate a Mass. The Mass is the making present of Christ's death and resurrection, the very source of our redemption. (When there is no Mass, I always offer my Mass that day for the soul of the deceased.) A growing problem today is that, in many cases, the deceased's family no longer practise their Faith, and so the actual mechanics of arranging and celebrating Mass proves to be a problem.

The Ritual for the celebration of part (2) of the Liturgy—i.e. Mass or a Liturgy of the Word—gives the instruction, "A member or a friend of the family may speak in remembrance of the deceased". Tensions can arise when the family think they can combine part (1) with part (2). This, then causes an imbalance in the Liturgy when the eulogy or eulogies take precedence over the Word of God and the priest's Homily, and even the Eucharistic Prayer. (I was told recently of a Funeral Mass where the eulogy went for 74 minutes! You can see what I mean.)

You read sometimes in the newspapers, and on the front of funeral booklets, "Celebration of the life of _____". The Mass is not the celebration of the life of the deceased—the Mass is the celebration of the life of Christ, and the deceased's participation in that life. The deceased's life can be celebrated at the Vigil the night before. Many Catholics, sadly, have forgotten these basics of our Faith, and are often influenced by their attendance at non-Catholic funerals. Without in any way disparaging our Protestant brethren, it is a simple fact that many Confessions do not believe in praying for the dead, therefor their funerals are simply a remembrance of the life of a loved one. Catholic tradition has always been that, according to the Second Book of Maccabees (12:45), "it is a holy and wholesome thought that we should pray for the dead, so that they may be released from their sins".
