26TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

YEAR A

1st October 2017

READINGS: Ezek 18:25-28; Phil 2:1-11; Mt 21:28-32

The parable of the two sons was addressed to the chief priests and the elders of the people. Its purpose was to defend Jesus' invitation of sinners and outcasts to the Kingdom, in the face of the sneers of the religious establishment.

The first son represents sinners who then repented and so gained entry into the Kingdom. The second son represents the chief priests and the elders - they promised to work for God but failed to do so. This is a favourite theme of St Matthew - the split in the religious person between saying and doing...

Gospel Reflection

'A father had three sons.

One day he said to them,

'Go and work in the vineyard today'.

The first said, 'Sure, Dad'.

But he didn't go.

The second said, 'I won't go'.

However, later in the day he changed his mind and went grudgingly.

The third said, 'Sure, Dad'.

And went immediately and willingly.

Which of the three sons will feel closest to the father at the end of the day ?

The third, of course.

The more we do the will of God out of love, the more we will appreciate His love for us.

Lord, save us from the darkness of broken promises, and help us to walk in the light of faithfulness.

My dear people,

To mark the 25th year of his Pontificate, and the 120th anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's Encyclical Letter on the Rosary, St John Paul II wrote his Apostolic Letter THE ROSARY OF THE VIRGIN MARY in October, 2002. He took up the theme of Pope Paul VI who commented "the Rosary is an unceasing praise of Christ". "To recite the Rosary is nothing other than to contemplate with Mary the face of Christ", wrote Pope John Paul.

" 'And he was transfigured before them and his face shone like the sun' (MAT 17:2). To look upon the face of Christ is the task of all His followers. To look at Christ is to experience the love of the Father and the joy of the Holy Spirit. "Lord, show us your face and we shall be saved' is a constant theme of the Psalms. Our model is Mary. Somehow the face of the Son belongs to His Mother. That face was formed in her womb, and perhaps actually bore a resemblance to hers. It points to an even greater spiritual closeness. The eyes of her heart were already turned to Him at the Annunciation, and during His life her gaze never left Him. At times it would be a questioning look, as at the finding in the Temple: 'Son, why have you treated us so?' (LK 2:48). Always it was a penetrating gaze, seeking to understand His hidden feelings and even anticipating His decisions, as at Cana. At other times it would be a look of sorrow, especially beneath the Cross. On Easter morning it was a gaze radiant with joy; on Pentecost it was a gaze afire.

" 'Mary kept all these things, pondering them in her heart.' St Luke twice tells us this, as if to emphasize the point. Mary's life was spent pondering the mystery of Christ. Like us, she did not always understand it. It was, in a sense, her 'rosary' which she recited uninterruptedly throughout her earthly life. Mary desires that we contemplate those same mysteries. In the recitation of the Rosary we enter Mary's memories. Because of this the Rosary is contemplative prayer. Without its contemplative dimension the Rosary would lose its meaning. Pope Paul VI clearly pointed this out: 'Without contemplation, the Rosary is a body without a soul, and its recitation runs the risk of becoming a mechanical repetition of formulas, in violation of the admonition of Christ: 'In praying do not heap up empty phrases as the Gentiles do; for they think they will be heard for their many words' (MAT 6:7). By its nature the recitation of the Rosary calls for a quiet rhythm and lingering pace, helping the individual to meditate on the mysteries of the Lord's life as seen through the eyes of her who was closest to the Lord'.

"Christ is our supreme Teacher—He is the revealer and the One revealed. It is not just a question of learning what He taught but of learning Him. Among creatures no one knows Christ better than Mary. Cana clearly presents Mary as a teacher, as she urges the servants to do what Jesus demands (JOHN 2:5). It is not hard to imagine her doing the same for the disciples after Jesus' ascension. Contemplating the scenes of the Rosary in union with Mary is a means of learning from her to 'read' Christ, to discover His secrets and to understand His message.

"Jesus invited us to turn to God in prayer, confident that we will be heard: 'Ask, and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you' (MATT 7:7). The basis for prayer's power is the goodness of the Father, and the mediation of Christ Himself, and the fact that the Holy Spirit continually intercedes for us. Mary supports our prayers. The Gospel of the wedding at Cana clearly shows the power of Mary's intercession as she makes known to Jesus the needs of others. The Rosary is, then, both meditation and supplication. Prayer to the Mother of God is based on our confidence that her motherly intercession can obtain all things from the Heart of her Son. In her Rosary Our Lady continues her work of proclaiming Christ."
