THE BODY & BLOOD OF CHRIST (CORPUS CHRISTI) — YEAR C

23 JUNE 2019

READINGS: Genesis 14:18-20; 1 Cor 11:23-26; Luke 9:11-17

The FIRST READING tells how Melchizedek, King of Salem (an early name for Jerusalem), comes to greet Abraham. Melchizedek is also a priest, and he brings an offering of bread and wine to Abraham, a prefigurement of the Eucharist.

St Paul's account of the institution of the Eucharist is the earliest written (SECOND READING). At Mass not only is Christ present, but we re-enact sacramentally the death by which He saved us.

In relating his account of the multiplication of the loaves and fishes, St Luke deliberately uses liturgical language to show that this miracle points towards the miracle of the Eucharist (GOSPEL).

Gospel Reflection

Jesus said to his apostles:
"Do this in memory of me."
We all love to be remembered.
This was true even of Jesus.
But if we want to be remembered,
we have a duty also to remember.
Memory is a powerful thing.
Wrongly used it brings death;
rightly used it brings life,
and is a form of immortality.
It keeps the past alive.
Those we remember never die;
they continue to walk and talk with us.
Lord, when we celebrate the Eucharist
we are remembering You.
May that remembering bring us
life here and hereafter.

My Dear People,

Today's Feast of the Body and Blood of Christ places emphasis on Our Lord's presence in the Blessed Sacrament both in the Mass and outside of the Mass. The liturgy of Holy Thursday with adoration following Mass certainly does this, but that liturgy is celebrated within the sombreness of Holy Week. Today's focus is on the joy and consolation this presence gives us.

The Blessed Sacrament is reserved primarily so that Communion can be taken to the sick and the dying. But because Jesus is truly present we have the opportunity to spend time with Him and offer Him our joys and sufferings, our adoration and thanksgiving. And we should spend time with Him, for it gives Him the chance to draw close to us.

Here at Immaculate Conception we have Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament most Tuesdays and Thursdays. We usually think of 'Exposition' as Christ 'exposing' Himself to us, but I like to think of it as the other way round – we are 'exposing' ourselves to Him. The Scriptural text which brings this out well is in St Luke's Gospel. He tells us that a 'power' went forth from Jesus that healed those He encountered. Christ is the same yesterday, today, and forever. What He did in the Gospels must still be happening today, for the Gospels are a proclamation of the living Christ.

We see what Christ wants to do for us in the Gospel passage of the healing of the woman who suffered from haemorrhages. She believed that if only she could touch the hem of His cloak she would be healed, and she was. Jesus became aware that power had gone out from Him. He could not let the woman simply slip off into the anonymity of the crowd after she had been healed. Jesus had exposed Himself to her by allowing her to take hold of His cloak. Now she must dare to expose herself to Him – otherwise she would not advance in faith. She had to go beyond the level where she believed Jesus had the power to heal her, to the deeper level where her whole person would respond in love. That is the relationship Jesus wants with those whom He meets. Pope John Paul once wrote: "Christ has a clear right to meet all those whom He has redeemed."

So the woman takes the risk of exposing herself to Jesus. She "fell at his feet and told him the whole truth". She told Him all about herself and how her illness had ruined her financially, and had excluded her from mainstream society (her illness involving blood had made her virtually 'unclean' — she was trembling because she knew she should not have been amongst a crowd of people). She told Jesus that no doctor could help her and that He was her only hope. Jesus had already healed her of her physical ailment when she touched His clothes. Now He invites her to a deeper personal relationship when He calls her 'Daughter' — she is to be a member of His family.

Her story provides us with a reliable image of what happens when we adore Christ in the Eucharist. In Eucharistic adoration we expose ourselves to Jesus in the same way as this woman. Like her, we hope for healing, and we expose our wounds to His life-giving power. And then, like her, we take the deeper risk of defencelessness, exposing our wounded selves and telling Him the whole truth so that he can see us as we are, without any protective covering. Thus exposed, and only thus exposed, can we experience a real transformation.

It may be helpful on such a Feast to mention a few points regarding the reverent reception of Holy Communion:

- * "On Sundays and other holy days of obligation, the faithful are bound to participate in the Mass." (CANON 1247). "Those who deliberately fail in this obligation commit a grave sin." (CATECHISM # 2181). The Sunday Eucharist is the very foundation of Christian life. By attending Mass, we show we belong to, and are faithful to, Christ and His Church. Catholics who, for no good reason, fail to attend Mass over a significant period of time, should not return to Holy Communion without approaching the Sacrament of Penance. This teaching of the Church is based on the Third Commandment.
- * Those who receive Holy Communion should abstain for one hour beforehand from all food and drink, with the exception of water and medicine. This does not apply to the elderly, the sick and those who care for them when Communion is brought to the home.
- * People may receive Communion again on the same day when they participate in the celebration of a second Mass.
- * Holy Communion has a more complete sign when it is received under both kinds. Christ said "Eat and drink". In this way a fuller sign of the Eucharistic Banquet shines forth, and we are reminded that the New Covenant was sealed in Christ's Blood.
- * When Communion is received standing, and that is the normal practice in this Church, an act of adoration should be made beforehand — a genuflection (when you are behind the person receiving Communion) or, if that is not possible, a bow. This is done only once — it is not repeated before you receive the chalice. A genuflection to the Tabernacle is not made afterwards — you already have the Lord within you.

Next weekend's Mass is in honour of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Patroness of our Diocese. The readings for Mass are for the 13th Sunday of the Year.
